PLAN PROTECTION FOR THOSE IN CHURCH DURING AIR RAIDS

Warning that enemy air raids or air raid drills may occur while congregations are assembled for worship in churches, the State Council of Defense this week issued a set of precautionary suggestions for the safe conduct of the worshippers.

"It is necessary for each church to plan proper air raid precautions," A. C. Marts, State executive director, points out, listing the following measures:

(1) Congregations should not be dismissed, as the street is the most dangerous place during air raids.

(2) A Church Defense Committee should be appointed by each church. This committee should work in close cooperation with the local Council of Defense of the community in which the church is located.

(3) Church Defense Committees should appoint a Chief Air Raid Warden who will take charge during air raid drills. Enough Air Raid Wardens should be appointed to have at least one and an alternate for each aisle or section of pews. A suitable nucleus for the Church Air Raid Wardens would be the ushers.

(4) The Church Air Raid Wardens should take the basic training for Air Raid Wardens as given by the local Council of Defense and on completion of the basic training should be awarded identification cards and armbands of the Citizens' Defense Corps.

(5) Church Defense Committees should designate certain rooms in the church or in the Sunday School building which will be used as shelters during air raids or air raid drills. The congregation should not be kept in the church auditorium because of the fragile nature of the roof and because of the danger of injury from flying glass. No church has shelter rooms which are safe from a direct hit by a high explosive bomb, but shelter rooms should be selected which offer the best protection from flying glass and debris.

(6) The worshippers in each aisle or section of pews should be instructed to go to a certain shelter room. The Air Raid Warden in charge of that aisle or section of pews should immediately, upon sounding of the alarm, lead the worshippers under his charge to the shelter room agreed upon.

(7) If a church has no small shelter rooms either in the church or in the Sunday School building, the Church Defense Committee should make arrangements for such shelter rooms in an adjacent building to which the worshippers can be taken by the Air Raid Warden with a minimum distance to be traversed through the streets.

(8) Drills should be held after the services from time to time until the entire congregation understands where they are to go and who is to direct them. The minister in announcing these drills should ask the congregation to remain for a few minutes after the service. The Chief Air Raid Warden should then explain the air raid precaution plan to the congregation. The Air Raid Wardens should then put on their armbands and conduct their sections of the congregation to the shelters agreed upon.

(9) In addition to the above precautions to be taken during daylight air raid drills the church should be prepared to protect the congregation in the same way during night air raid attacks or drills and should be prepared to blackout lights also.

(10) The Air Raid Wardens should be prepared to maintain morale of the worshippers during their stay in shelter rooms. The singing of hymns or songs or some other program should be prepared in advance so as to ease the tension of the group during an air raid or drill.

WINTER FIRE HAZARDS NOTED; PROTECTIVE METHODS OUTLINED

With winter fire hazards likely to be much more acute this season in areas where fuel shortages may cause persons to improvise their own auxiliary heating facilities, householders are being cautioned to pay particular attention to safety measures as a protection to life and property during the emergency.

All that is needed is a careful basement-to-roof check of the premises at regular intervals. One of the chief danger spots to look for when checking the conditions of a chimney is directly under the roof, since there may be holes where the chimney passes through the attic.

Most cracks in chimneys are of a more subtle nature. Where chimneys lack flue linings, heat and sparks often escape through tiny openings and start a bad blaze.

Many fires are caused by improperly built chimneys. A common fault is the use of a chimney as a support into which floor beams are set.

Where fireplaces are used care must be taken to see that sparks do not ignite furnishings and that the fireplace is so constructed as to prevent heat from igniting timbers around or below the fireplace.

Steam pipes in contact with woodwork cause many fires each winter since steam heat dries the wood which is then in condition to absorb oxygen and ignite. No steam pipe should be within one inch of any woodwork. Where passing through combustible floors, ceilings and partitions, a metal tube one inch larger than the pipe and protected with metal caps at each side of the opening should be provided.

A special point of danger is the place where the smoke pipe from a stove or furnace enters a chimney. Unless properly installed and secured, fire is likely to start in the partitions around the chimney.

Smoke pipes may appear in reasonably good condition when viewed from the exterior but upon inspection are often found clogged by creosote deposits or eaten away by rust caused by condensation. Smoke pipes should be inspected before and after the heating season and more often if wood fuel is used.

In the winter old, dry wooden shingle roofs are an added danger because of their susceptibility to ignition from open fires. Few fires can be as easily prevented as those caused by the storage of ashes in wooden barrels or other combustible receptacles. A fire in the contents of a metal barrel will often burn itself out from lack of air, as air can enter only at the top. To use wooden barrels or boxes for ashes or rubbish is to needlessly jeopardize homes and families.

Persons accustomed to automatic oil heat will be stoking furnaces converted to coal. Improper operation of drafts resulting in overheated furnaces and flues, and improper banking of fires resulting in coal gas explosions will doubtless cause many fires. Rubbish piled near furnaces and hot ashes piled against wooden partitions are other menaces.

Where there is a shortage of other fuels greater use will be made of portable electric heating appliances. These devices commonly use fairly large amounts of electricity so that there is danger of electrical circuits being overloaded if the appliances are used simultaneously with other devices also having high current consumption ratings. It is of particular importance that all electrical circuits be protected against overload by the proper size fuses.

Wicks of portable oil heating appliances should be clean and adjusted to the proper level to prevent explosions. Sufficient ventilation is needed to assure proper combustion. Heaters

Optical Glass Is Rotary Topic

75 Percent of People Should Wear Glasses Says Speaker

James Bergan, an executive of a Philadelphia optical firm, talked on the history of optical glass at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Bala-Cynwyd Narberth Rotary Club Tuesday.

The meeting was held at the Overbrook Golf Club. James Carroll was chairman for the day.

"Prior to the last war," Mr. Bergan stated, "the best glass came from the Zeiss company in Germany, but in 1917 the industry began to be intensively developed in America and since then has been foremost in the field."

Approximately 20 percent of the people in this country wear glasses, Bergan stated, and 75 percent should wear them.

He showed different types of lenses and illustrated with blackboard drawings how various sight deficiencies are corrected by the proper glasses.

Carnations were presented to three members who are celebrating their birthdays this week — Eugene Davis, Alvin Shull and Charles Campbell.

Keep in Step With Uncle Sam, Warns Bell Official

Victory for America and all the United Nations depends on the "home front" as well as on the combat forces, Carl R. Freehafer, vice president and general manager of the Bell Telephone Company, declared at a Fall meeting for employees at the Brookline Country Club.

About 600 telephone men and women from the entire Main Line district, together with their guests, attended the meeting. George B. Loughery, Jr., district traffic superintendent, was chairman. Others present included Herbert J. Bruder, district manager; Kilburn LeCompte, district plant superintendent; James O. Crawford, district engineer; and George Y. Oliver, district construction foreman.

"In the war now known as World War No. 1," Freehafer said, "friend and enemy alike agreed that Germany lost because the home front crumbled first and when the home folk lost hope and gave up, the foundation of the armies cracked and dissolved and the armies went down to defeat."

"It is now more important to keep in step with Uncle Sam than to keep up with the Joneses," he said.

Keep in step with Uncle Sam Joneses."

Boy Scout Troop 1, of the Ardmore Presbyterian Church, was given an award for the most advancements at the November meeting of the Court of Honor.

Of 26 advancements, 12 were for boys from the Ardmore troop. Included were one Eagle award, won by Don Thompson; a Life Scout award, won by Bob Barker; and two star awards. Two boys from Bala Troop 4 also won star awards.

Three boys advanced to first class, five to second class, and twelve won merit badges.

A new system of games and drills was put on by L. Fleiding Howe, chief field executive.

Study Plans for Physical Training

George H. Gilbert, principal of Lower Merion Senior High School, has been authorized to attend a conference in Baltimore on December 18 and 19 to study what steps can be taken by schools to increase physical training. Reports that a high percentage of persons were found physically unfit for military service resulted in the conference.

Gifts for Servicemen in This Country Will Be Sent Early In December

Thousands of the gifts are wrapped and waiting for the Christmas boxes to be sent to the domestic camps and naval bases for Narberth's men in the armed forces, but there are still more to come and it will probably be the first week in December before the final merchandise shipments are received and the complete cartons packed for shipment.

As is the case all along the line where quality goods are concerned, considerable difficulties have been experienced in securing the needed articles in accordance with the promises made by the manufacturers, but there need be no alarm that any of the service men will go without a brimming full kit.

Meantime, the committee urges again that any changes in location be reported immediately and if some of the men have been sent overseas recently their packages will be sent them as soon as the chairman of the List Committee (Narberth 26-83) receives the new address.

It is also pointed out that the committee has not been informed regarding the present whereabouts of all the men who were inducted in October, and the families of such men should be aware that if they do not advise the addresses of their kin, no boxes can be forwarded.

It is also suggested that neighbors of those families whose men left in October will not be regarded as anything except well-intentioned if they mention the matter to those who are directly concerned and who may inaccurately believe the Committee will receive the necessary information from official sources.

Call Narberth 26-83. Those relatives who would like to put a little extra personal token of their own in the box will have the opportunity, if their article is not more than hand-size and weighs not more than four ounces, if no written message is included in it, only a greeting and name, in order to comply with postal regulations.

Such articles should be delivered to Mrs. Laura McCaffrey, chairman of Wrapping Committee, 91 Windsor av.

Once again, call Narberth 26-83 to report any change of address or any address not previously reported.

Statistics on members of Lower Merion's 1941-42 graduating class were given to the School Board Monday night.

Of the remaining 50 percent the report showed that 44 1/2 percent were attending other schools; four percent are in the United States armed forces; one percent are at home and not desiring to work, and one-half percent are unemployed.

Says 27% of Army Were Boy Scouts

Major Gary Speaks at Annual Dinner of M. L. District

The Boy Scout program was described as the "only major effort that prepared youth for the present emergency" at the Main Line Scout Leaders District Dinner Monday night.

The speaker was Major Rex I. Gary, of the Office of Officer Procurement of the United States Army, and former Scout Executive of the Valley Forge Council.

He stated that 27 percent of the present Army, and 63 percent of the officers had had Boy Scout training. He cited the fact that when Secretary of the Navy, Knox addressed a questionnaire to the 25,000 boys who formerly had Sea Scout training, it was revealed that 8,000 of them were now members of the Navy.

More than 100 Scout leaders and their wives attended the dinner which was held at the Ardmore Presbyterian Church. Morse Baker was toastmaster.

Dr. Allan MacLachlan Frew, pastor of the church, offered prayer, and the opening and closing exercises were conducted by Scouts from Ardmore Troop 1. Bob Duke was pianist, and Stan Canarius was song leader.

Lieutenant Herrocks, of the U. S. Coast Guard, told how Scout training benefited members of that organization.

"Bill" Anderson, coach of the Lower Merion High School basketball team, praised the teamwork of Scouts.

Upon the recommendation of a nominating committee consisting of Dr. Downs, Dr. Hewson, and Edward Hodge, Dr. Charles A. Bohney, of Wyndewood, was elected chairman of the executive committee of the Main Line District. He succeeds Russell Callow. He has been acting chairman for several months.

Harry Keen, vice-president of the Valley Forge Council, presented achievement awards to Roger T.

Federation of Churches Will Begin Christmas Work Here November 27

Plans for extending a better and handling the task of clearing Christmas over a wider area are getting under way at the Main Line Federation of Churches, 18 Simpson rd., Ardmore. Mrs. John M. Brister, chairman of the Christmas Committee, is a member of the Philadelphia Committee on Christmas Giving which operates the Christmas Exchange, in connection with the Social Service Exchange, 119 South Juniper st. This is a clearing house which gives free service to all church, club, fraternal employee association and other groups who plan to give Christmas assistance to needy families or individuals and want to be sure that they are not duplicating the work of any other group.

Christmas Exchange will check their list against names registered by other organizations and report any duplications.

"Naturally the Christmas Exchange can serve only groups within city limits," said Mrs. Brister. "Our agency will do the same type of work, covering the area served by part of Lower Merion."

The Christmas Committee will begin work November 27. Miss Margaret Tadd, Bryn Mawr, will assist Mrs. Brister in supervising

L. M. Classmates To Honor Thirteen "Flying Bulldogs"

Lower Merion High School students will give the 13 "Flying Bulldogs" a send-off Monday night on the eve of their departure for Chapel Hill, N. C., where they will complete their aviation training for the U. S. Navy. They will leave sometime before December 1.

The "Flying Bulldogs," all Lower Merion boys, have finished two months preliminary training in the Civilian Pilot Training School at Franklin and Marshall College.

Students and parents, who go to the Senior High School Auditorium in Ardmore at 8 P. M. Monday night, will see the full color picture "Battle of Midway" and also the U. S. Navy service picture "Eyes of the Navy."

All of the "Flying Bulldogs," youths between 18 and 20 years of age, will be on the platform and some of them will tell their former classmates how they like Navy training.

Speakers will include Lieutenant Commander T. T. Ludlum, senior member of the Naval Aviation Cadets Selection Board; Lieutenant Roland F. Harper, 410 Kent rd., Cynwyd, another member of the Board, to whose home the boys went in June when they planned for the group enlistment; George H. Gilbert, principal of the High School and Everett E. Burlingame, president of the School Board.

Reports from the Naval training school indicate all of the "Flying Bulldogs" have passed all preliminary courses "considerably above the average."

The "Flying Bulldogs" from Lower Merion High School are Elmer J. Chubb, son of Mr. and Mrs.

Services Held For Walton M. Wentz

Borough Treasurer Died Suddenly At Narberth Home Monday Night

Funeral services were held this Thursday afternoon for Walton M. Wentz, treasurer of Narberth Borough, who died suddenly Monday night following a heart attack at his home, 235 Wayne Ave., Narberth. He was 57.

The services, held at Stuard's Funeral Home, Ardmore, were attended by members of Narberth Borough Council and other local officials. Burial was in Westminster Cemetery, Cynwyd.

Mr. Wentz was publicly representative of the Pennsylvania Railroad's eastern region and was extremely popular with newspapermen throughout the area.

He was a member of Borough Council from 1918 to 1926 and had been treasurer since January, 1927. He was an active member of the Narberth Presbyterian Church and was formerly a trustee. He was one of the founders of the Pennsylvania Golf Club, with courses at Lanerach and Frazier, and was a member of its board of governors since 1931.

He was with the Pennsylvania Railroad nearly 40 years. His technique in handling the press when ever an accident occurred was a wide departure from older days when railroad officials sought to cover railroad disasters. He invariably was first to call newspaper offices, announcing, "We have had an accident."

When on special occasions, the railroad sought co-operation of the press, it was always Mr. Wentz who was called on to meet the newspapermen and establish an entente cordiale.

Mr. Wentz was born in Carroll County, Md., and started with the Pennsylvania Railroad as a clerk in the superintendent's office of the Baltimore division. In 1908, when the railroad's publicity department was organized, he was transferred to Philadelphia as stenographer and general assistant in the department. In 1916 he became assistant publicity agent. In 1932 he was made eastern region publicity representative.

From 1923 to 1931 he was editor of the eastern region edition of the Pennsylvania News, magazine for the railroad's employees. He was a past president of the American Railway Magazine Editors' Association. He was a former secretary of the Philadelphia Traffic Club and a life member of the Pen and Pencil Club. He was a member of the Square Club Masonic organization of Penna. employees.

COMMUNITY LIFE IS BUILT ON SUCH MEN AS WALTON WENTZ

Successful community life is built on the characters and personalities of men like Walton Wentz, men with whom the instinct to render service and neighborliness comes ahead of self-interest. That is especially apparent in the smaller centers like Narberth and, reversely, is one reason why self-government in large cities is less successful because it is more impersonal. The Borough of Narberth has been particularly fortunate ever since it was incorporated in having available the services of men of the Wentz type. That, more than any other reason, accounts for the good government and good community services and spirit which prevail there.

Walton Wentz served his home town, his church and his employers with unstinted zeal and generous self-sacrifice all the years of his adult life. Like other men of that type, he was unassuming, going quietly about his affairs in a way that never was conspicuous so far as the assertion of his own personality was concerned.

He served the Borough of Narberth as a councilman for eight years, during which time he was chairman of the Highway and Sewer Committee. That is one of the most arduous posts in the Borough Council, and was especially so in Mr. Wentz' time, when much new street and road construction remained to be installed. The chairman of that committee in those days had to expect and respond to an unending stream of telephone calls at his home, and of admonitions and even complaints from citizens whom he happened to meet on the street. That was a part of what Mr. Wentz went through, and his only reward was the satisfaction of doing a good job for his community.

The manner in which the Philadelphia newspapers "top-columned" their announcements of his death was an indication to anyone who understands newspaper practice that he was regarded by them as a man of much more than usual attainments. There are few people in Narberth whose unspectacular deaths would be given such treatment by the crowded city newspapers. That was their tribute to his worth, and to the manner in which they knew and liked him as the public relations man of the Philadelphia District of the Pennsylvania Railroad.

should be kept a safe distance from combustible furnishings and placed where they will not easily overturn.

A leading cause of winter time fire fatalities is the use of kerosene or other flammable liquids to kindle or "quicken" a fire. When kerosene is heated to 100 degrees or over it behaves very much like gasoline at ordinary temperatures and gives off similar explosive vapors.

Proper storage of oil fuel is an important feature. Care should be exercised not to spill it drawing it from drums or other containers.

Another winter precaution — don't let the hydrant near your property be obstructed or hidden by snow or ice. Shovel it clear first, and be sure to repair all leaks or damages.

FREE EDUCATION FOR WOMEN FOR WAR JOBS; DRAFTSWOMEN, CHEMISTS TO TRAIN

War industry vitally needs about 300 women trained in Engineering Drawing and 100 women trained in Industrial Chemistry. Any woman, regardless of age, who is a high school graduate is eligible for college-level training in Engineering Drawing. For those to be trained for Industrial Chemistry the only additional requirement is a year of Chemistry taken during the high school course.

To train women to fill the positions, courses will be conducted by the colleges of the Philadelphia metropolitan area, classes being held three evenings a week from 7 to 10 o'clock for a period of 14 weeks. At the end of this time, women successfully completing the course of study will be fitted for the positions available. Starting salaries in these positions are from $25 to $30 per week, with time and half for overtime, and with increases in salary during the first year, if the woman proves successful on the job, to bring the pay to around $40 to $45 a week.

The training will be given without cost to the student under the Engineering, Science and Management War Training program, sponsored by the United States Office of Education. To make application for this training, write to the Office of the Coordinator, ESMWT, 102 Wilford Building, 33rd and Arch sts., Philadelphia, requesting the necessary form.

AVOID Freeze-ups

There is a Shortage of Materials

If a water pipe freezes in the cellar, or in any other part of the house, shortage of material may prevent or delay repairs for a long time.

Unnecessary work may hinder the war effort, and thawing pipes, or repairing them, may require hours of labor and vital supplies needed elsewhere.

Now is the time to protect your pipes against freezing.

CALLING THE TURN

Lower Merion High's football team proved its championship qualities more by the manner in which it squeezed by a mediocre Upper Darby team than it did in running hog wild against undefeated Norristown the week previous.

It was the first time the breaks had gone against the Maroon and the first since the opening game with West Philly that it found an opponent willing and able to look it square in the eye and give punch for punch without faltering.

When Upper Darby took advantage of a blocked kick and fumble to push over those two first period touchdowns, Lower Merion was offered a challenge none of us believed would ever be issued. Many a team in Lower Merion's position would have cracked wide open and would never have recovered from such stunning unexpected blows.

But the Maroon calmly accepted the challenge and by dint of great courage, terrific determination and dazzling ability answered it in such a thrilling and telling manner that it won the admiration and respect of friend and foe alike. Only a true champion could have made that long haul against the scrappy, deadly efficient team that represented Upper Darby last Saturday.

The present Maroon eleven isn't the greatest team in Lower Merion history, but the school has never seen a gamer one.

THANKS, ROYALS!

The amazing showing of Upper Darby may prove to have been a god send to both Lower Merion and Haverford High.

Having had the everlasting daylight scared out of it, Lower Merion won't go into the Radnor game as self-confident as it might have had. There will be respect for the Raiders where heretofore was only contempt. There will be a desire to atone for last week's poor showing at the expense of the Raiders.

All of which is much to be desired. Radnor's record has been so poor that there had been the fear that L. M. might be the victim of overconfidence in this Main Line classic Saturday. More than one poor Radnor team upset supposedly superior L. M. elevens in the days of yore and it only would be in keeping with tradition were Radnor to tie or beat the Maroon this year.

However, the Upper Darby warning should have the Merionites on their toes and itching for a decisive victory. That should suffice.

BREAK FOR FORDS

Haverford High's chances for victory in its Thanksgiving Day battle with Upper Darby were also enhanced by the latter's showing against L. M.

Haverford made such a strong comeback after dropping three of its first four games that it began to look as if it would be the favorite in the Turkey Day game. Thus, the dangers of over-confidence, traditional game upsets, etc.

Now Coach Stinson shouldn't have any difficulty convincing the Fords they'll have to surpass their play of recent weeks if they want to finish the season victorious.

And, on the other hand, Coach Mefort of Upper Darby may have difficulty getting his team 'up' for Haverford after having 'shot the works' against the Ardmore school.

Neither team can get much consolation from comparative scores. Upper Darby can claim an edge by virtue of its victory over Cheltenham, a team which routed Haverford, and by its close game with Lower Merion, another team which crushed the Fords. In turn, Haverford can point to its victory over Lansdowne, which team in turn defeated Upper Darby. Also the Fords trounced West Chester, a team that had trounced Media, and Upper Darby barely nosed out Media by two points.

All of which indicates a battle royal on Thanksgiving Day.

CONGRATULATIONS!

Congratulations are due Coach Ray Keegan and his Episcopal Academy gridders for completing an undefeated season and for retaining the Interacademic League championship.

Episcopal made both feats possible by beating Haverford School, 14-0, at Haverford last Friday. The Churchmen were the underdogs in the battle but rose up splendidly for the big moment and decisively outplayed the Haverford team.

Episcopal started the season as title favorite but never lived up to its expectations in the league until its final games. The Churchmen won from a weak Germantown Academy team by only 6-0 and nosed out Penn Charter by only the margin of a field goal. Haverford defeated both teams easily.

• HIGH NOTES •

by DAVID MALICKSON
Class of 1945 — Lower Merion High School

Bud Whitney, sophomore chairman of the assembly planning committee introduced Mr. L. Verne Slout, who was spokesman for the Theatre Workshop Players. This group presented two short plays, one of which was about Abe Lincoln, the other about a woman who cured her husband of drinking by making him believe he was dead.

A few announcements were read by Bud Whitney, who by the way, was president of Bala-Cynwyd Junior High, and the students were dismissed.

There will be a hot time in the Down's Gym on Saturday evening, November 21, because the students and alumni of L. M. will celebrate the results of the Radnor football game. The celebration will be in a form of an informal dance sponsored by the Senior Class. Those in charge are: Greer Heindel, chairman of the program; Hap Helveston, chairman of the decoration committee; Walt Karcher and Barbara Floyd, advertising managers; Lucille Solomon, orchestra committee chairman. The Crusaders, whose feature vocal singer is Betty Williams, were chosen by the orchestra committee for the occasion. The admission price for this gala program is the same for stags or couples—$1.65.

L. M.'s "Gyp the Jap" days are proving very successful, for more than 2,670 tin cans were brought to school by the students on November 5. This brings the total amount of cans collected up to 4,649, very close to the 5,000 goal.

Individual honors go to Lucille Solomon—18 3 tin cans Mr. Edward White, teacher—112; Gordon Dagg and Pat Warren are tie for third place, with a total of 70 cans each.

As for home room winners, rooms 120 and 103 are waging a nip and tuck battle, having a total of 500 and 450 cans, respectively.

Julia Yarnall starred in a one-act play given for the members of the French Club at their first November meeting. The background of the play was an insane asylum where many humorous incidents occur in distinguishing the patients from the sane visitors.

Following the play refreshments were served to all who attended the meeting.

The L. M. girls' swim team is scheduled to meet four opponents during their season. The team, which is under the direction of Mrs. Hazel Young, will not have as many members as did the teams of previous years, because of the lack of transportation. However, the swimmerettes plan to meet Norristown, Abington, Coatesville and Upper Darby.

Rain or shine the team must play. This is the way that the L. M. and Radnor hockey teams played their game on November 10. Only half of the scheduled time was played because of the wet condition of the field.

Have you any idea how cold it gets along the Atlantic coast at 3 a. m.? The men who have volunteered to do coast guard duty are all too familiar with those chilling winds. But thanks to the American Red Cross' gifts of woolen patch vests these men are keeping warm and comfortable during these zero hours. One of them writes:

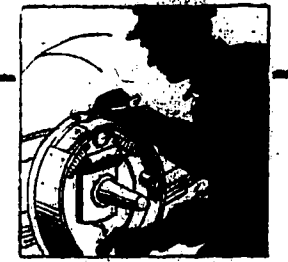

"In behalf of myself and my crew I wish to thank you for the very fine vests you sent us. We have just come in from a tour of duty and have had a very good opportunity to make use of them—in fact we were not prepared for such cold weather, especially in the early morning—and so they were our main protection.

I think the idea is very clever and we are all indeed grateful for your kind thoughtfulness in sending them. We shall get many hours of use out of them."

The vests were made possible in the first place by Benjamin Freeman, a Philadelphia tailor, who decided that the Red Cross could do something with his large collection of woolen patches and scraps. The Red Cross could and did. Clever needlewomen in the Red Cross workrooms cut and sewed those scraps into snug warm vests. They lined them with muslin pickets into which newspapers could be placed. We call it insulating now, but country people have always known that newspapers stuffed between shirts and coats are mighty warm.

And so a thoughtful citizen's gift of samples and patches is making a hard job a little more comfortable for brave men.

Explains Delays in Salvage Pick-ups by Salvation Army Trucks

Major R. E. Baggs, who is in charge of all Salvation Army salvaging operations in Philadelphia, Montgomery, Chester, Delaware and Berks counties, in a bulletin issued today, states:

"Since the start of the war the Salvation Army has endeavored to conserve gasoline and rubber, and has found it necessary to curtail the number of visits made to the various communities.

"The Salvation Army is anxious to collect all donated material as quickly as possible. However, unavoidable delays will occur, and we ask that our friends be patient. If an unusual delay takes place, call our office at Manayunk 3340, or drop a post card to us at 430 Kramersville, Philadelphia, and we will call as soon as possible.

"Furniture, Clothing, Rubber, Silk, Hosiery and Metals of all kinds are the urgently needed items at present."

Autocar Employee Joins WAVES; 479 from Plant Now in Military Service

The figure in the center of the big Service flag that hangs over the main entrance to the Autocar Factory in Ardmore, has just been changed from 374 to 479, indicating that 105 members of the Autocar organization went into military service during the month of October.

It is impossible any more to speak of them all as men, for among the new lot, now honored on the Service flag, is Miss Mary Louise Brubaker, of Llanerch, who left the Autocar accounting department to enroll in the officer training school of the WAVES at Smith College in Northampton, Mass.

County Wins Award

(Continued from Page One) on Salvage of the State Council of Defense, do hereby certify that we have canvassed the reports submitted by the chairmen of the County Salvage Committees in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the collection of scrap metals and rubber for the period beginning September 1, 1942, and ending October 31, 1942, and have determined that there was collected during this period 1,560,907.016 pounds, or a per capita collection of 157.6 pounds.

"We have further found that the following counties collected scrap metal and rubber in excess of 100 pounds per capita of population, and are therefore entitled to receive the Salvage Victory Pennants offered by the War Production Board."

Montgomery County is among the 47 on the award list.

The State Salvage Committee is urging localities not to relax in their efforts, however, because Pennsylvania has not reached its quota of 3,000,000 tons of iron and steel scrap that must be collected to keep Pennsylvania's war industries running at capacity throughout the winter months. Only six weeks remain before the deadline, so all communities are asked to put forth every effort.

Lower Merion Needs Victory Over Radnor In 46th Meeting to Win Two Titles and Finish Unbeaten First Time Since 1933

Come what may—floods, epidemics, depressions or wars—there is always Lower Merion and Radnor.

For the 46th time since they first met in 1897 these two high school rivals, among the oldest in the country, will clash Saturday in a game of football that has long been a must on the calendar of every Main Line sports lover.

It matters little that Lower Merion is unbeaten and an overwhelming favorite, that Radnor has its weakest team in years and is still seeking its first conference victory. More than 8000 will turn out to see the battle at neutral Villanova College stadium, lured irresistibly by the color, excitement and the unexpected that always accompanies the meeting of these arch-foes.

There is extra importance attached to the battle this year. The Suburban Big Six and the Suburban Conference championships are at stake, both destined for Lower Merion's possession provided the Maroon wins its eighth straight victory and thus completes its first undefeated season since 1933.

Also this is the rubber game of the 45-year-old feud, the series being even at 18 victories a piece with nine games having ended in ties.

Lower Merion defeated the Raiders, 14-0, last year and appears capable of even a more decisive victory this year, but there is no evidence of overconfidence in the Maroon camp. And for good reason. Beliefs that Lower Merion was invincible were shattered last week when the Maroon barely squeezed out a 19-13 victory over a mediocre Upper Darby eleven. And Radnor traditionally rises to great heights in this game, triumphing when it scarcely is conceded a chance.

Just two years ago Lower Merion fans were so confident of victory in this climactic game that they celebrated the night before only to see Radnor romp to an unbelievable 31-6 victory the next afternoon. Back in 1930 Radnor didn't win a game but managed to hold one of Lower Merion's strongest teams to a 12-12 deadlock. And there have been similar incidents, too numerous to mention.

Jules Prevost, lanky, likeable Radnor coach, says things look none too bright for his proteges, but smilingly admits he has "something up his sleeve and only hope it works."

"We would have had a much better chance if Upper Darby hadn't given Lower Merion that scare last week," he says.

Dick Mattis, handsome Lower Merion coach who has earned his place with the most talented tutors in the suburbs as a result of his brilliant success in two short seasons, agrees that the Maroon should win. "But, that's just the trouble," he says. "The team that should usually doesn't in this game. Naturally I'm worried. Wouldn't you, after last week?"

Mattis is just one of many who will recall that battle with Upper Darby for many a day. The very thought of how close the Royals came to winning gives one a cold chill, but this is quickly replaced by a warming thrill at the memory of how the Maroon courageously fought from behind to win with two last period touchdowns.

Upper Darby had won only two previous conference games and was a decided underdog, but it came to Pennypacker Field keyed up for its greatest effort and when it managed to block a kick and recover a Maroon fumble in the opening minutes it was quick to turn both breaks into touchdowns and a 13-0 lead.

Then the Royals fought with inspired fury to protect this edge. They stubbornly yielded a second period touchdown to the Maroon which marched 65 yards for the tally, nimble Joe DeFelice racing the final 10 yards.

Lower Merion was unable to break through Upper Darby's spirited defenses thereafter until a great kick by sophomore Marshall Stuart paved the way. The kick rolled out on Upper Darby's four in the closing minutes of the third period. Stuart ran 15 yards with Price's return boot to the Upi-Dah 23, and just after the fourth period got underway he crashed over from the one for Lower Merion's second touchdown. DeFelice place-kicked the all-important extra point to tie the score at 13-13.

Upper Darby turned aside a Maroon drive on the 23 before Lower Merion finally pulled the game out of the fire with a touchdown in the closing minutes. A 26-yard forward pass from DeFelice to Greer Heindel, who made a great catch on the eight yard line, set the stage for the score, which was registered by Vernon Young on a dash around end behind excellent blocking.

Upper Darby scored its first touchdown on a 40-yard pass, Leo Price to Dick Ambrosi, after securing possession on a blocked kick deep in L. M. territory. Dave MacNichol scored the second Upi-Dah touchdown on a three-yard plunge after Price recovered a fumble on the Maroon 25.

As a result of giving the Maroon its scare Upper Darby maintained its role of "jinx" to the Ardmoreites. The victory was the first Lower Merion scored over the Royals in five years and gained revenge for last year's 7-6 defeat which kept the Mattismen from an undefeated season.

John Wallace, 50, husband of Elizabeth Wallace died Friday morning at his home, 608 Montgomery av., Narberth, after an illness of several months.

Funeral services were held Tuesday morning from a Philadelphia funeral home, followed by a Solemn Requiem Mass at St. Margaret's Church, Narberth. Interment was in St. Denis Cemetery.

The Rev. Bryant M. Kirkland, pastor of the Narberth Presbyterian Church, presented plans for a week day Bible School which will begin in January. Second and third-grade pupils will attend the classes after regular school hours. Mrs. Russell Basler presented a $25 check to Dr. Kirkland for the project.

The Child Study Group, Mrs. E. Lee Goldsborough, Jr., chairman will meet December 2, at 10:30 a. m. at the Community Building. The topic will be "What You Can Do."

Borough Service Flag To Be Repaired and Hung Before Thanksgiving

The hurricane wind which swept down Haverford av. on the afternoon of November 10 brought down Narberth's Service Flag, despite the steel cables which George Supple thought would hold it against any opposition.

Before it goes up again, good-sized vent-holes will be made in it, to better buck the winds, and this will be the result of the handiwork of the Narberth Chapter of the Red Cross, which is now engaged in the task.

At the Borough Council meeting on November 9, it was resolved that the Borough would maintain the flag for the duration and should disaster make it irreparable then a new one will be provided out of the official exchequer.

It is expected the flag will be flying again before Thanksgiving. When many service men are expected to be on furlough—who ought to be made aware of the borough has a permanent reminder of their absence.

792 Gave Blood in Recent Red Cross Drive

The Blood Donor drive conducted by the Red Cross in this section recently was 100 percent successful according to official reports.

Seven hundred and ninety-two people gave their blood during the six days the Mobile Unit was on the Main Line.

Because of the great demand, the Mobile Unit will be at the Philadelphia Skating Club in Ardmore again on December 7 and 8.

Rano's Beauty Shop Attractively Renovated

Rano's Hairdressing Salon at 37 N. Narberth av., Narberth, is reopening today after having been closed for three days while extensive renovations were made. The entire shop has been repainted in pale blue and new fixtures for the greater comfort and convenience of the patrons have been installed, according to Lewis Rano, proprietor.

359 Pupils Playing Musical Instruments

A report from Lower Merion's nine elementary schools shows that 359 pupils are playing 14 different kinds of musical instruments in the school band, orchestras and other musical groups.

The report was submitted to the Lower Merion School Board Monday night.

School Bus Services Curtailed May Shorten Sessions To Save Oil

Cut Transportation by 4127 Miles; After School And Night Activities Limited; Pupils Within Mile and One-Half Will Have to Walk

In the heating of buildings and the transportation of students the Lower Merion School Board is curtailing its services to save fuel oil, gasoline and tires.

Policy of the school directors is in keeping with Federal regulations curtailing the use of vital war supplies and steps being taken by the war effort.

Even the sessions of the School Board, itself, will be shortened during the Winter months to allow the heat to be shut off in the Administration Building at an early hour.

In the transportation of pupils the monthly bus report shows 4127 miles less than for the operation of buses during October of last year.

Information has been received that the schools will have to get along on two-thirds of the amount of fuel oil consumed last year. Principals of the District's elementary and high schools have been instructed on steps to be taken in conserving fuel oil. This involves elimination of all after school and evening activities which would require heat, elimination of heating water for many purposes and elimination of heat in the buildings on Saturdays and Sundays.

There is a possibility, according to F. A. Dubois, superintendent of schools, that day sessions may have to be shortened if it is found that the supply of fuel oil is dwindling too rapidly.

Superintendent Dubois told members of the Board when they met Monday night at the Administration Building for one of the shortest directors' sessions of the year.

"We are using as much caution as possible, consistent with the health of the pupils, to conserve fuel oil." The Board has taken another step in fuel oil conservation in refusing permission to use school buildings where heating would be required.

The Director of the Office of Defense Transportation has informed the School District that it would be a requirement of his office that no pupil, who lives a mile and a half or less from school will be allowed to be transported regardless of the age of the pupil.

"This indicates," declared the school superintendent, "that our bus transportation is likely to be considerably curtailed by the direction from the Office of Defense Transportation." It appears likely that it will be necessary for us to reduce our service rather drastically."
